IMPROMPTU,

heroes who fell in the battle of Rapuked. Great God of Arpad's warriors bold! God of the mighty and the free! Oh, hear upon thy starry throne, Omnipotence, our praise of thee. O. God, thy sun above us shines,

Thy sky sti'l wears its robes of blus, Is recking with a crimson huc Though all thy earth was stained with sin, This spot would consecrated be,

For here our brethren's holy blood Was poured, to set thy children free. Let not thy sun, with arid beam, Gleam coldly on the heroes bed, But flush with life the gory sod, A flowery mantle for the dead. To naturo's sweetest incense turn

Each holy drop that filled their veins, And palsy, with thy thunder's voice The hands that forge the tyrant's chains As those who walk in freedom's light We kneel upon our brethren's graves, O, God! above this holy soil, We cannot live a race of slaves.

God of our fathers, Mighty One! To whom, alone, the free can bow From out these graves a glory beams In radiance, on thy people's brow. Almighty God, of Heaven and Earth, Thou Ruler of the vasty deep; Oh let thy grace all hallowing shed Its peace upon the warrior's sleep. Be Thou our shield in that fierce hour, When brightly gleams the battle's flame;

O, God, Thou art our only strength,

Omnipotence, we praise Thy name. Man's Works thatt follow Him.

BY WHITTIER. We shape ourselves the joy of fear Of which the coming life is made, And fill our future's atmosphere With sunshine or with shade. The tissue of the Life to be.

We weave with colors all our own, And in the field of Destiny We reap as we have sown. Still shall the soul around it call The shadows which it gathered here,

And painted on the eternal wall The Past shall re-appear. Think ye the notes of holy song On Milton's tuncful car have died? Think ye that Raphael's ange! throng Have vanished from his side? Oh, no! we live our life again; Or warmly touched or coldly dim
